Description:

Under the general direction of the Staff Services Manager III, the Housing and Community Development Specialist II (HCDS II or Senior Housing Policy Specialist) in the Land Use & Planning Unit will serve as one of the Division's highest-level policy experts. The Senior Housing Policy Specialist will represent the Department as a member of external committees, inter-agency efforts, advisory bodies and other groups addressing assigned area of expertise on topics that could be controversial, nuanced, or technical to audiences that expect a high degree of technical knowledge and professionalism. While the Senior Housing Policy Specialist may work on any initiative within the Division, a focus of this position will be the Division's accountability and enforcement activities.

Desirable Qualifications:

- Expertise in the challenges related to land use planning for housing needs at both the state and local level
- Expertise in the challenges facing nonprofit and/or market rate housing developers in today's regulatory environment
- Superb communication (written, verbal, and interpersonal) and presentation skills.
- Ability to work independently and as part of a team.
- Skill with Microsoft Office software (Word, Excel, Outlook, PowerPoint).
- Familiar with the areas of California State government or other policy making practices including the legislative process.
- Education or experience in planning, public policy, public administration, or other housing & community development topics, or coursework in policy analysis, statistics, urban planning, or land use.
