

Advancing Recovery. Managing Complexity. Strengthening Communities.

A trusted partner to state and local agencies administering housing, community development, and disaster recovery programs.

Since 1985, IEM has helped agencies design, administer, and manage complex federal grant programs. We bring the staffing, systems, and compliance expertise that keep programs moving, from standup through audit-ready closeout. Your program, your residents, our capacity behind you.

The Recognition Belongs to Our Clients. That Is How It Should Be.

HUD highlighted an IEM-supported program structure as an exemplary practice and example of strong governance and organizational controls, while County elected officials recognized our disaster recovery case managers for the service they provide to residents.

She helped write the rules. Now she helps states run them.

Marion McFadden, Vice President of Disaster Recovery

Before joining IEM, Marion led HUD's Office of Community Planning and Development, overseeing $10B annually and reshaping how CDBG-DR works for the states that administer it. Today, she leads the IEM team supporting state and local grantees.
